Dear Dr Jin,

I hope you are well. I'm getting in touch following your appearance on my colleague Geoff Cutmore's panel in Davos in January.

As I'm sure was fed back to you at the time, we really enjoyed your comments on the panel (and actually thought you blew the other panellists out of the water) and we wanted to explore another opportunity with you.

On December 10th we are planning to film an hour long Davos preview show. We do these every year and they act as both a year in review and a lookahead to the major themes of Davos and the year ahead.

We would be delighted if you were available to take part in the show this year? Topics we expect to cover include the trade war and China-US relations; rising rates and market volatility; European economic strength, politics and Brexit; and US sanctions on Iran and Saudi.

Re logistics, the filming will take place in the morning of December 10th (exact time TBC) from our studio at 10 Fleet Place, London. The finished show will be played out throughout the holiday season and in the run up to WEF itself.

The anchors will be Geoff Cutmore and Steve Sedgwick, plus one other guest.

I look forward to hearing from you about this.

Many thanks,

Katrina
