For December and January, this is going to be

20K living expenses (rent, food, utilities)
moving related expenses (to SF) I currently estimate to be 20K for shipping household
6K for real estate agent
~10K for rental deposit in SF
6K for AirBnB during January
perhaps additional cost to bridge the time until we find tenants for our current apartment in Cambridge

I expect that we can sell our car for 2000 to 3000, which may suffice as down payment for a new car in SF.

By the end of the month, I will learn when we need to pay new school fees for SF and what part of the school fees for Boston we get returned.

I expect that AI Foundation will pay me a salary from February. (The contract is not signed yet but everything seems to be working out well.)

Thus, I think I will need another 60K for covering expenses. However, the bigger issue may be taxes for 2018. I don't know how we can book the money I received directly (i.e. not via Humanity Plus), and how to deal with the taxes for that, and I don't have any funds to cover the taxes I owe for 2018 (including the tax for the additional 60K). Ideally, we should sort this out this month, please!

Bests, and thank you,

Joscha

I will need additional support from Jeffrey to cover the period until January, and urgently need to know how much I'll have to set aside for taxes (it is already November). Please advise!
