Subject: Jim Watson

Some of you have heard of Jim's accident last Friday on lab grounds. Upon driving down from the hillside campus to our main roadway, his car somehow accelerated, hit a guardrail and crashed down a wooded ravine toward the inner harbor. Fortunately he had his seatbelt on and was found within minutes by members of our security team.

Jim is still in intensive care at North Shore Hospital (under a pseudonym). He suffered head trauma with a gash atop his head, cut eyelid and fractured eye socket (now repaired).

Liz is with him nearly around the clock. If [REDACTED] like to send a note or card, I suggest mailing it to their house:
