Cables have such low impacts we can bring them in just about anywhere. Things are finally moving and I think we should get the first rounds of questions from the feds pretty soon, and when we do we make the changes. I like the xmas cove dock, its really the best landing site, its safe protected and has deep water offshore.
The only negative is the public use...but its your island.

I think its a good idea to have the engineers really address the storm issues...I think we'll be in for more sooner than we like.

the hurricane has disrupted the architects original plan.s the new thinking is to bring all the engineering . vehicles. . boats. shops. above xmas cove. . so the best place to land the electric would be at xmas cove. or the beach facing the ritz. xmas cove the best dock and if they dont allow i will just land the barge there. on the beach. thoughts.
