Because the cistern is buried, will be filled in and then construction of addition goes on top at the moment - this is part of the foundation for the addition - all we have at present is a large hole, which Jules and Buck are digging out

Mike will move into the existing cottage once complete, the addition does not have to be completed for him to move out of the main compound

Good Evening

Addition can not be started until rock breaking complete, cistern installed then construction of the addition can be started, this will be placed on top of the cistern
