Hi Jeffrey,

Mr. Gabriel and his crew have been working on sanding all the wood in the office every weekend for the past four weeks. The sanding process has created a very fine, flour-like dust which has coated everything despite our attempts to close doors and cover items. It is not possible for us to work while they do the sanding hence having them work only on weekends. They have two more weekends to go before they finish. I have asked them about coming this Friday, Saturday and Sunday and knocking it out so that I can have the rug and AC vents cleaned next week. I want to get them out of here ASAP since some of us are having respiratory issues. They can come those three days but it means closing the office on Friday. Is that okay with you?

With warm regards,

Cecile de Jongh
