Jeffery,

I am writing you through my father's account because I was afraid an email from my account might not get to you.

I wanted to let you know that my father passed away recently. He had melanoma for the past ten years. He tried many experimental programs at Johns Hopkins over the past few years but none of them helped him. He spent the last six weeks at my house, too weak to take care of himself. He was a wonderful, confident man to the end.

I know that he was an infrequent communicator with you; on your birthday and when he had a burst of inspiration. I didn't want you to think that he had forgotten or become uninterested. He has always appreciated and valued your friendship and all that you have done for us. Thank you for all that you have done for us and please let me know if there is anything I can ever do for you.

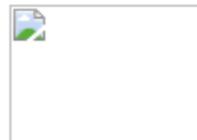

Best regards,

Doug
