Ciao Jeff,

It looks like biopsies are negative and no surgery is suggested now for the leiomyoma.

Question for you that probably you have researched. Should I do a pet-CT scan? Have you or anyone that you know done it as prevention measure? Or better stick to MRI even if less effective? And if you do it they should be done only once every 10 years I guess?

Thank you, I trust your input a lot.

Yesterday I was talking about you to the former head of Bain consumer goods in Europe as one of the smartest minds I ever encountered when he asked me who are my mentors...

Looking forward to seeing you in NY on the 17th October!

Best
G
