

From: Valeria Chomsky <[REDACTED]>

To: "jeffrey E." <jeevacation@gmail.com>

Subject:

Date: Wed, 30 Jan 2019 06:38:12 +0000

A granddaughter just came with a request for Noam to sponsor her husband, who is an immigrant in the US through an affidavit of support (Form I-864) with the immigration.

Among the information required to be provided is income and assets.

Besides the financial responsibility for 10 years, if the person makes use of government assistance or has a change of address and doesn't inform the government, the liability comes to the sponsor, who can have its assets blocked by the government.

What do you think?