the polaris that is already been done only offers a spray that would have to be done back in FL..
they do not have any covers for exposed screws and bolts..
probably does not make sense to ship back please advise
thank you

The unit is already on the island. It would have to be returned to FL for the process. David says it will take 2 days - 1 to clean and prep, 1 to spray and dry. It can be sent back to the port to ship back to STT.

Greetings Rich,

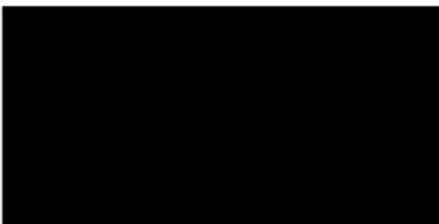

Southern Equipment does not offer a rust protection plan for the Textron Prowler EV units.

Tropicars will obtain a quote from the company they know that does rust protection - they will spray the vehicle with a product that will protect it from rusting. Brad is working on obtaining a quote.

Daphne,

We are able to offer a full under coating to the cart for extra protection from the elements. We can also offer to pull off the rear seat and roll cage and rhino line it complete which is the material we spray on the beds of pick up trucks. This will add protection to the rear seat and roll cage which are the most vulnerable areas on the cart as it is built of steel. By doing the under coating on the bottom of the cart and rhino lining the seat and roll cage, you will certainly increase the life of the cart and keep the cart looking good. The price to complete the work per cart is $600.00. Please let me know if you have any additional questions.
