From Matt:

Larry just tried your cell. Cvs will do $3M but no spares. Most of the spares they have are very specific and customized to their operation. The Maintenance director gets calls weekly for their equipment. So not only do they need them for the other heli but they're a lot more valuable than to just throw them into a sale, I brought up the notion of writing in the loi that u would only receive the spares when the other one sells but they may not ever sell it (I personally think they will) and they'd rather take their chances of selling in the open market where they could get a lot of money.

Do we cross out the spares part of the LOI?

Thx
