How's this, amalgamating your last two letters;

Max,

I presume it is clear that the recent proposal transmitted by Harry's lawyer that I should be satisfied with a handout of 100k a year from the Marital Trust is too disgraceful for comment. I would like to know what further information you require for reimbursement for tax payment. We have previously transmitted a great deal of financial information in order for you to reimburse our taxes, including proof of payment and more. Exactly what more do you require, and with what justification? We see little reason that you cannot act on the information already provided. As for the claim about concern for my later years, that has been thoroughly refuted.

Sorry, I meant to propose this:

Could be please let me know exactly what information you would want in the event that I request disbursement from the marital trust.

To make sure I understand. A letter like this?

Seems to me I ought to withhold the letter to Harry until we receive a response from Max, which might influence how to approach Harry.

I've been thinking about it since you wrote. Sitting with Harry will be a waste of time, and unless you think it's wise, we're hesitant about providing Max with more information, because it's none of his business. I've been thinking about writing a strong letter to Harry, telling him that of course his proposal is outrageous and designed to be unacceptable and that it leaves us with two options: (1) accepting one of the proposals I sent, preferably deciding to split the Trust and liquidating it, or (2) letting a Court make further decisions. I'd like to leave it up to him to make Court proceedings inevitable.

What do you think?

1. asking the court to remove harry. ? sitting with harry , and having it out. . . or first providing max with more financial info , in order to give him more rope. . . . Im afraid to protect valeria. something must be done. the facts are clear. harry wants the money, . and his sisters dont want to get invovled in a fight. . your call
