Your pal does not get it.

I am not a shopkeeper in a souk or on Old Bond Street trying to sell him a trinket.

His "give me a proposal approach" doesn't work in Nigeria (or many other parts of Africa). I need to get a better sense of him, his team, and their long-term objectives.

Once I better understand him, I will then determine if I want to work with him, and if so I will then help him solve his problems. I am not simply for sale.

"Give me a proposal..." Really?

How blunt should I be with him?

Dear Jide

I agree we should meet but for our meeting to be fruitful please give some information in your proposal we are willing to sign an NDA agreement with you.

Background of Dpworld/Nigeria

We have been many times to Nigeria from 2005 till 2018

1-met the previous two presidents at their invitation

2-met the current Lagos Governor at his invitation.

3-Met a private port owner in Lagos discussed acquisition/ joint venture it didn't work as he insisted that we pay his dividends in dollars while our earnings in Nigerian Nira !!

4- January 2018 met transport minister who was overwhelmed with my presentation but he offered we build an industrial park in Lekki since Port is already given to a consortium of an indian developer/ Chinese contractor and cma French shipping company to manage

I declined the offer as there is no benefit for us to create an industrial zone to produce cargo for someone's else port.

At Dpworld I made a decision that unless we get what a compelling offer we stay away from Nigeria until such a time.

The only way we will invest in Nigeria :

1-As a green field in Badagry which had good infrastructure

2- a brown field port in Lagos area either acquire an existing terminal .

I am in dubai till end of this month

But it's meaningless to meet without the information on what is proposed so I can study and correspond with you our precise interest .

Yours
Sultan

Dear Sultan,

It is nice to receive your note. Thank you for writing.

We should meet to begin to get to know each other, we then can discuss specific opportunities.

As Jeffrey may have shared with you, I am recently back from Abuja and Paris. Are you in Dubai through Eid or are you in the West during the next couple of weeks? I am in New York and Washington this week and then London and Monaco this coming Monday and Tuesday (11/12 June) before returning to New York.

I hope all is well with you,

Jide

Dear Jide

Jeffrey introduced us a while ago

We are very interested in Nigeria

The two locations available are Badagry and Lekki We prefer badagry because the infrastructure is better We know that 3 years ago Maersk line has signed an agreement with the government to develop Badagry But so far Maersk hasn't started any construction We can start to develop Badagry Lekki is another location but it has no infrastructure and 10 years ago Government has given concession to an indian company W are very interested I understand Have good contact with bollore we are interested in their portfolio let's talk Yours Sultan
