Speaking of my problem with numbers, I am having trouble understanding what it means to [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] I didn't know whether to laugh or cry. I always thought that [REDACTED] but I feel the same physically (played tennis yesterday, went to Pilates Reformer on Saturday) and mentally (well, sometimes I have a little trouble accessing names). I am still teaching (not math, thankfully,) volunteering at [REDACTED] on weekends and studying French. The [REDACTED] stereotypes just don't match up with my reality.
I'm still growing and learning, and life is good!
Love you my friend----- for half a century!
