BofA never came back to me with anything in writing on the G650. Instead they left me a voicemail. Based on the voicemail, I think the attached spreadsheet shows cashflows for both a $30MM plane and a $52MM plane. But don't hold me to it. Let me know if you think it makes sense. There are floating rate alternatives that pose more interest rate risk, but may have cheaper cashflows if interest rates do not rise.
