I think the preferred position for the house is in the current location of the tiny awful pool. I find St Thomas ugly, and the wind comes from the east. Your house location would make it impossible to be outside except for the ugly St Thomas side. The other house on the hill near the ruins suffers the same fate. WIND. Having an eastern wall would block the best view. I suggest the current pool location is cradled in the arms of two hills and the view is not compromised by St John or St Thomas. Much more tropical if one doesn't see the ugliness. I think a spa on the beach, in stead of the current tennis court would also be preferable, I would have direct access to ocean. and be able to walk the beach after exercise or massage.
