Jeffrey,

We will need to move the boat out of your office in order for the new carpet to be laid. It was moved away from the wall so that the painters could paint behind it. When it was moved, it was clear that the table it sits on is not that sturdy. Can we choose a sturdier surface and one that is slightly lower so that the masts don't touch the ceiling?

The painting is basically done. I will have them come back to paint behind some of the desks that were too heavy to be moved and which need to be moved for the new carpet. I have secured space next door to be used to house our furniture while the carpet is being put down.

With warm regards,

Cecile
