Well for now as a retail forex investor I am not paying commissions other than spreads, swaps and taxes which are not big yet. In the future if I'll manage to open a full hedge fund I'll have to trade with larger contracts in size (perhaps 10 times more) to cover costs and make profits and I will also need more money per contract size because of lowered leverage and higher responsibility. This model is based on $1,000 contract size and high leverage. I also have 3 other algorithms for diversify and constantly researching new opportunities.

Dear Jeffrey,

I was thinking about our conversation over this week about my algorithmic trading model and thought it did not go quite well. I decided to write you a letter fully expanding on your question. It's 2 and a half pages long with pictures and definitely worth a read! It's attached to the email as well as this summer test result. Can provide weekly fall tests or any certain day result if needed.

Can I confirm dates for our next Skype call? It's November 15-16, right? Not November 5-6?

I very much hope to hear from you in the near future!
