 *....Makes yer proud to be English... I think not....."- Rupert, Scotland, 27/2/2011 07:31-----
 what on earth has being English got to do with it? Epstein is American so was the girl. And we all know how morally corrupt the rest of the Maxwell family were/are. Prince Andrew is not the epitome of being English. What you are talking about is related to a small minority of individuals who just happen to be English. If they behave badly, then it says something about them, their chosen lifestyle, or the circles they move around in. What it does NOT, is have any bearing on the rest of the nation! So please, let's not get into provocative Scottish vs English battle - history is what it is - the PAST. And I certainly won't be accountable for what someone else did long before I was born or simply because I am also English. I am proud to be English, that is what I am. Now British - is another matter. NO thanks.

 Andrew needs to be investigated and if found guilty of impropriety banished as Persona non Grata. He will lose his right as fourth in line to the throne and all the benefits that come with that, including his extravagant and worthless lifestyle being funded by public money.

I was truly disgusted having read this article. Although sadly not surprised, I wonder why people idolize any kind of celebrity or other such "influential" people, most of whom seem to surround themselves with depraved "friends" & whom can turn a blind eye to anything where status, fame & wealth are concerned (seemingly typical of our "anything goes" society where everything is justifiable). That aside, I am more disgusted that out of the 24 comments on this article so far, people are either talking about what a pretty piece of tot she is, how she should have basically kept her mouth shut, how we can't be judged by the actions of our friends, whether the royal family has any validity (as if it ever had a clean past), & most astonishingly arguments about whether Fergie has more right to a royal wedding invite than Andrew! Absolutely disgusting, looking forward to further comments on her weight, whether she looks good for her age, & scrutiny over whether shes had any work done soon.

Makes yer proud to be English... I think not. - Rupert, Scotland, 27/2/2011 7:31
For God's sake, for one moment, can you scotties suspend your obsession with the English ... we don't think about you all that much, we just bank roll you, so how about returning the compliment and commenting on the news at hand, instead of managing to fit in a racist moan with every subject?

Never ceases to amaze me just how long this nation is prepared to allow these people be considered a step above the rest of us. Giving the Queen her dues for the way she has conducted herself (for the most part) this institution is long passed it's sell by date. These people have wealth beyond our knowledge. Their children gain places at universities that our children are better qualified for. They walk into any job they want; Harry and William both got places to fly in the military...just like that! And that Harry parties while his men are where? They're out for themselves, befriend anyone who has a bit of money with no thought for the background of some of these people.

Its a shame the world is like this! Especially when you think of all the good that men like Epstein could have done with their wealth. As for Andrew, I find it hard to believe that someone in the know behind the scenes doesn't check the backgrounds of all his potential friends and associates. He must have known what type of man Epstein was.
