

I had lunch with Nobel laureate James Watson in January

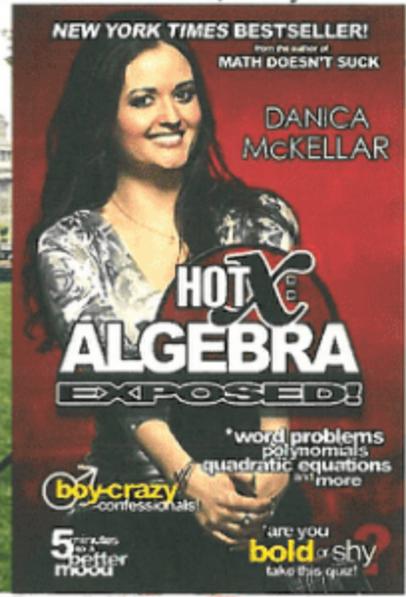

November 16, 2015

Dear Mr. Weinberg,

I had lunch with Nobel laureate James Watson and his wife in January.

Three-time New York Times best-selling author and judge for the 2016 Miss America contest Danica McKellar called me "the immensely gifted Jonathan Farley...." Harvard University professor S. Allen Counter, about whom Hollywood megastar Will Smith is making a movie, said of me: "Jonathan Farley is one of the world's most impressive young mathematicians.... He is a model of excellence for young people of all backgrounds, but especially African-Americans who may see their intellectual potential in him. Harvard is proud to honor his achievements and acknowledge his fine example."

I sent a letter express to Mr. Jeffrey Epstein. As you know, recipients of his largesse are fleeing him, and it will hurt you if your client somehow suffers. I am willing to help both you and him by openly standing with his Foundation. Oh, and I'm a Harvard alumnus, like you.

Senator Ted Kennedy, Congresswoman Jo Ann Davis, and Congressman Silvestre Reyes (left) listen to me speak

Cordially,

Jonathan Farley, D.Phil. (University of Oxford), A.B. summa cum laude (Harvard University)
Math Department, Morgan State University, 1700 E. Cold Spring Lane, Baltimore, MD 21251

cell: [redacted] email: [redacted] Skype ID: [redacted]

“...the incomparable, brilliant Jonathan Farley.”

— Dancing with the Stars' Danica McKellar, star of the hit television show The Wonder Years, in her New York Times best-selling book, Hot X: Algebra Exposed

McKellar him know I wrote him.