Partnering for Cures spotlights innovation, collaboration and policy solutions to accelerate medical progress

 Partnering for Cures

Nearly 1,000 leaders in science and medicine gathered in New York for the sixth annual Partnering for Cures meeting to share knowledge, best practices, and patient-driven solutions that are transforming the path to cures. Among the goals of this effort: ensure that innovation in one disease area is translated to another to achieve treatment breakthroughs for all, encourage collaborative efforts, and make sure that policies are in place to address the barriers that get in the way of medical progress.
