Subject: Projects We Love: Search and You Will Find

Date: Thu, 19 Dec 2013 23:01:41 +0000

The dark days of filterless searching on Kickstarter have come to an end! With Advanced Search, there's an infinite number of ways to discover cool new projects. Search away, friends!

Elliott Landy's Photographs of THE BAND— The Book

By Elliott Landy

The cover of Van Morrison's Moondance, and of Bob Dylan's Nashville Skyline. That's Elliott Landy, the influential photographer who helped define the Woodstock era. Some of his most iconic photos are of The Band, and now, 45 years after the release of Music from Big Pink, Landy is collecting rare, never-before-seen photos of the group for a historic book.

 Restore the Lincoln "Courting Couch"*Restore the Lincoln "Courting Couch"

By Springfield Art Association

What's a worn-and-torn horsehair sofa got to do with a historic presidency? A lot, if it happens to be the very couch on which Abraham Lincoln sat with Mary Todd during their courtship. Now, the Springfield Art Association wants to give this presidential artifact some loving care — after all, the 1830s were a long time ago.

"Weaving the woolen muffler for the alpaca I sheared"

By Shiro Masuyama

Artist Shiro Masuyama likes crafting self-referential pieces of clothing for animals. First it was a knit jumper for an Irish sheep, made of the sheep's own wool. Now, he's going to travel to Peru to weave an alpaca scarf for the long neck of that same alpaca. We love it, but we also think it might be shear madness. (Sorry.)

Make a pie cookbook.
Or a mural of pi.
