When Roman Mars launched a project for the third season of his award-winning radio show 99% Invisible, the response was so overwhelming that we created a proper home for Radio & Podcast projects on Kickstarter. Mars is back and he's upped the ante: a new project to turn 99% Invisible into a weekly show.

"Lenticular" might sound like something aliens do. But really it's a style of printing, like a hologram, that makes an image come to life. The folks behind GifPop are using lenticular printing to bring animated GIFs to the physical world. Finally, a way to experience the magic of GIFs in the real world.

The Linear Calendar

The Linear Calendar

A year has no natural interruptions, yet most calendars display time in a very mechanical manner, chopped into grids and broken over multiple pages. The Linear Calendar does exactly what it says: it shows an entire year all at once, on one single continuous timeline. A perfect way to see all you've accomplished, and all that's yet to come!

Fund the thing in your head.
