

From: [REDACTED] >

Subject: Report # 148: Security & annoying hotel

Date: Thu, 23 Dec 2010 07:01:01 +0000

Attachments: Door_sign.jpg

Hallo!

Since I'm the only tenant in this 10 apt villa and have a lot of shady real estate agents showing nasty people the apts, I have taken some security measures:

1. Put up a sign - see attached. Do u think I get my point across...?
2. Installed a 2nd lock
3. Installed a door-guard

It's a "safe" country (because newspapers are not allowed to report crimes), but a girl gotta be careful...

I am at full-fledged war with the hotel next door. They are blasting music outdoors 124 meters from me until midnite 7 days / wk.

I filed complaints to the [REDACTED] govt. It's exhausting to live here! just never had to fight like this anywhere else! The curse of living in a wild west country without laws.

I was told by security at work that I'm not allowed to attempt to drive through the barrier at the security booth. The guards are so slow opening the barrier so every morning it's a race whether they open it before I run through it.

Jeez... Can't have any fun at all...

With all my tripple-vault-security on my frontdoor it was only a matter of time before I locked myself in...

The locksmith told me that even though the security lock turns 4 times, I can only turn 2 times since there's not enough space in the wall. Of course I had to turn it 3 times...

After attempts to open with knife and screwdriver I was sure of that this was a secure lock. Finally I put my gym-gloves on and forced the key to turn. I'm a single woman and I roar!

Enjoy the holidays, kids! I know I won't. Going to Sweden and it's cold...

--
[REDACTED]