1)   DRAWING ON YOUR BUILDINGS:

There are a couple of other things that would be mind blowing. You missed it at Gadgetoff a few years ago, but we have friends who have made this astonishing system that lets you PROJECT on huge structures "graffiti"… so you can on MASSIVE walls… use a portable projection system they've developed… and then with a laser pen (like the ones we discussed)  DRAW on the wall… and the camera attached to the projector attached to some cool software… recreates the light graffiti… and then lets it smear down the wall if you want that, etc.

The guy who did this is James Powderly and Evan Roth… ████████████████████████████
They do very cool stuff.

2)   FIRE WRITING: Another friend of mine Neal Ormond developed a system that uses propane and 500 mini gas jets and a computer program to "write" and draw using tiny flame jets.
This is an amazing installation… and though he sold the rights to it to a rock group… I think that it would be an amazing interactive art piece for you.

I have about a hundred more ways to enjoyably spend your money in the pursuit of fun tech.

For the Google IO event I'm producing I have found some absolutely delightful FLYING SHARKS… 50 foot mechanical robotoic snakes… strange and fun robots that shoot pingpong balls at malicious speed, etc.  I think you would enjoy this thing… to be held in the Moscone Center on April 25… … but just seeing what I'm putting together will make you laugh.

Dan
