

From: Kickstarter HQ <no-reply@kickstarter.com>
To: jeevacation@gmail.com
Subject: Projects We Love: Freaky Fun
Date: Thu, 28 Jun 2012 19:24:35 +0000

---

Having trouble viewing this email? View it online instead

JUNE 28, 2012

This week's projects are pretty spooky! We've got a sword fighting video game, a bi-coastal dance piece, and a nifty gadget to help you DIY the scariest haunted house of them all.

En garde

Legendary sci-fi author Neal Stephenson wants to revolutionize the sword fighting game. While buttons and triggers have always felt inadequate for simulating real sword combat, Clang utilizes advances in motion controllers so you can swing, slash, and wield your sword to victory.

EXPLORE THIS PROJECT

CLANG

by Subutai Corporation

 Category Video Games

 Location Seattle, WA

A Thousand Natural Shocks by Sharp & Fine and Kat Howard

A Thousand Natural Shocks by Sharp & Fine and Kat Howard

by Megan Kurashige

 Category Dance

 Location San Francisco, CA

Coast to coast

Based on a yearlong correspondence between a writer in New York and a group of dancers in San Francisco, A Thousand Natural Shocks is a hybrid performance of story and movement that promises to be a "wickedly brilliant adventure."

EXPLORE THIS PROJECT

Hauntbox

Hauntbox

by aylr

 Category Open Hardware

 Location Salt Lake City, UT

Boo!

The Hauntbox is a dream come true for makers and hackers with a love for theatrics. A browser-configured, open source and Arduino-compatible prop controller, it lets you easily automate everything from spooky sound effects to strobe lights and Halloween props.

EXPLORE THIS PROJECT

---

Love these projects too?

Share the newsletter with your friends!

 Share on Twitter

 Share on Facebook

---

Not interested in receiving the newsletter? You can unsubscribe here:

 Unsubscribe

Copyright 2012 Kickstarter Inc.
Kickstarter Inc. – 155 Rivington Street, New York, NY 10002.