Return to a simpler time when your health and beauty relied on herbs, wines, and spices sold in delicate glass bottles with handwritten labels. There's something so enchanting about the era of apothecaries and their homemade cures. Achieve this same sweet, demure look by bringing elements like tinctures, elixirs, and delicate bronze and copper accents into your modern day bath.

Store amber bottles filled with lotions and hair products on a wheeled metal cart and light a gentle pink candle, letting the aromas of lavender and sandalwood waft through the air. Keep towels in a cabinet made from polished wood and blue glass, and set out vintage-inspired soap dishes on a sage countertop. Finally, soak in a stunning copper bath, letting the water become milky with crystal bath salts and a blend of herbs, and close your eyes as you relax in your homeopathic spa oasis.
