Good !

... as long as she is getting treatment. She doesn't have to stay in hospital whole time of treatments - just long enough for them to make sure they have removed any source (like implant!) and that her dosing is stable. Vanco has this peak/trough adjusting at the beginning. Plus they will need to make sure it stays Vanco sensitive.

Hopefully it's a hydration issue and with some volume they can find a vessel.

Worst case they can go a little more aggressive if required since she's going to need it therapy for a while

The hardest part about if access when you have infection is that you have to make sure the line doesn't get infected too - especially if bacteremic. So sometimes that means changing lines a lot.

Matters how extensive her infection is and also where her implant is/was. Hopefully her implant isn't the source and is already out of it is.

Sorry to armchair quarterback.
She doesn't probably need more doctors she needs more comfort and friends.

If there is anything I can do call or text
