Johnny Pigozzi asked how Germany was and this was my response:

Talk about Teutonic efficiency. When Woody asked how long it was from the airport to the hotel I said 30 minutes. The driver said no, 28 minutes. Then when we went to the mini village Woody asked how long it was and I said 15 minutes and the driver said no 12 minutes. Another time he asked how long it was to the restaurant and the driver said eight minutes and then he said no we made up a minute so only seven minutes. Woody said we could always slow down and we could get there in eight minutes. The driver did not get the joke.

Sneaky, one question
In my resume you changed dates I've been at IPI to 2015, but at the same time I worked at two other organizations. Isn't it weird that I had my school and worked at two jobs from 2015-2017?

I think in order to make sense of this, I should change to the original dates. I've been at IPI since September 2016 so almost a year which is still quite good, no?

On plane to Chicago, about to shut down. FYI... There will be 3 key people there for the meeting mentioned in the final point. And 2 key people for house, etc. clearing/protection. The three will need lots of personal massaging, and it looks like I'll leave a day early so I'll really have to use my time there carefully if you want to move ahead. Essentially hit the ground running right when I arrive.

Sorry if I have made you have another perspective on me but I am 110% committed and believe in my self.. like I said I just landed back home last night first thing I did was go to my class and now I am Infront of the shop in less then 3 minutes
