Of course, I understand, that you need someone who will assist you. I hate myself, because I cannot help when you need me. But I am not definitely sure, that I know someone, who would be suitable for you. Do not you have Assistants right now???

you mean vasculatory, either mobil exon and plants. . it has a low likelihood of being right as your lens is seeing the world through your own views. it should be a warning .

Wish I had a zillion skills and ideas and talents but I don't. And as you know - I'm not a spring chicken anymore... wasted a little too much time trying to save the world...

I've not yet formulated a working hypothesis nor do I know exactly where to best put my energy beyond my clinical skills.

I've also not put forward any theories or asked anyone (beyond asking BG if he would Invest in me after my c3 time) to take a bet on me.

Seems prudent to me to wait until I have something more tangible/actionable. Or, to sit and brainstorm with you or the third rock folks and figure out if there is truly Something to pursue that doesn't waste time goodwill and money.

Plants would be great and creative and lots to do and learn but there needs to be something actionable to build a business. I don't know what that is yet. You probably do!

Love thinking about what could be possible to translate from plant physiology to human physiology but lord knows.

So instead I have to use my time to do what I understand and what doesn't require the time and help of others and that is clinical work. It's a great backup plan in case nothing else emerges. Plus, it's also fun and legitimate.

Thank you for helping me and thinking alongside me. I appreciate it.

your skill set does NOT translate into money. I'm ok if you want to pursue. first you need to set your GOALS clearly .

All I can do and control and be is a doctor ... and it's not a fancy living but it is a respectable one/salary etc.

I've never veered from my hopes to be rich rich rich.

I got promised that if I took the time to work hard I would be rewarded. Never was.
