Does what you do professionally relate to spotting difficult to find patterns in the world?
But, also possibly patterns that can get easier to spot the more you are looking for them?

exactly the opposite, its to ignore the noise and the simple pattern emerges

We have been working with some new noninvasive brain stim tech that increases this by double digit percentages. I've been selling it to top people in the valley whose jobs relate to this, but hadn't thought about finance related people.

It's a side thing of another much more important project, so it hasn't gotten much thought other than using it to bring in big blocks of cash from the valley.

What it does is largely considered impossible. Having said that, the military will be a big customer because they have a related problem with soldiers not being able to tell who the enemy are in civilian villages and such. Its getting training improvements of 20 to 30% for that right now. Seems completely impossible to them. Lol.
