Sent you the reporter email - Steve has this question

Something I've been thinking as I listed the conversation — RUN THIS BY JEE.

The reporter might think he's done with the story and told his editor he wasn't; able to get in touch with you. The fact that he didn't drop everything to talk to you is a bit unusual to me ("Sunday" and "deadline"). He might want to be looking for an out so he can stick to the story without any changes because he sold the editor on how hard he tried to talk to you.

So it would be good to get word and get a time set up to talk to the editor so it looks like you're available just in case. You could wait until after you talk or not ... don't know enough of the crisis people dynamic and plans.

But if the editor knows you will talk on background then he has a harder time shutting down the story.

Ask JEE.

One additional question from me:

If he says YES off the record but no won't leave your name out of it do I still try to confirm his facts? Or do I say well then good luck with your story?

I don't know how he got my personal number but he left messages and sent texts wanting to confirm the call.

I do not want him to have my personal number and am not responding to that but had to confirm a time.

You told me that at every point with him i had to confirm off the record so I did.

Waiting for your email.

I want my name out of the story

He wants facts for his story

Isn't there a way forward?

I have to talk to the spine team for a minute be right back.

Might need to talk to you to clarify a few things before call.

More in 15 minutes and can decide what email to send and call specifics

He seems to have laid out his ground rules.

Got two emails from them

The PDU is the work I was brought over to do - mostly the data and open data that made everyone mad when we started exposing their data. Jim and his executive team would set targets for each major operational team and they had to meet them and i had to monitor the data

They hated the targets and also the transparency. like when the world learned it took 39 months to make a loan or when we had no staff diversity etc.

But I built 4 versions of a website - one every 9 months or so and made it all live etc

See the site as it is today hasn't been updated in a year.

What about this phone scenario?

When I call him at 10:

Will Confirm off the record and will ask him to record the call

Will have him on speaker phone from the landline and will have you on speaker phone from my iPhone

And you can text me comments?
