If I am with the person I love I could also work in a shop selling ice creams all day and wouldn't mind because I know that when I come back home I'm not alone and there is someone who loves me as well who's there whatever happens. That's the only thing that could motivate me to work. The only one

I'd rather do something with passion or not do it at all. If I have to work doing a meaningless job like working in a shop that doesn't procure me any emotion, happiness and satisfaction in life I can only do it if it's for someone I love, not for myself. Since it doesn't procure me any sort of positive emotions but just boredom and depression and occupies most of my time the only reason I would do it would be because I know it would make someone that I care about happy.

However, if I do something creative that I love doing, I would have less need of procuring my happiness on someone else because I would already find fulfillment in the things I do and flourish in my own job exactly the opposite, , taking money instead of making it. leads to a miserable life. making it yourself. will allow you to follow any path you choose. . . same story again.

Anyways tomorrow at 3pm I have a meeting with Alaïa and the HR. The nephew told me that he would like me to work with him for the first month as an intern from 9 to 6 everyday and see how it goes and if I'm good at it, it can transform it in a real job
