Dear Mrs. de Jongh, Cecile,

This is an investment invitation.

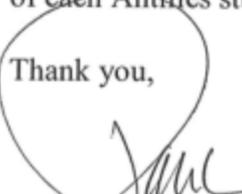

In business there is a concept called the "Value Proposition" – basically the "why you should invest in us" statement. At Antilles School, our value proposition is simple: We provide an unparalleled educational opportunity to the youth of this community. Our teachers, our programs and our facilities are exceptional, and the results speak for themselves. Since our founding in 1950, we have delivered.

Of course, excellence has a price tag. We equip our students to compete successfully at some of the top colleges in the United States, and we do it for far less than our mainland counterparts. But this only works because successive generations of generous parents, grandparents, alumni and community members have provided operational support to supplement our tuition dollars.

We run on a tight budget, but we refuse to compromise on program and quality. We cannot, because we owe each student our best.

Your tax-deductible Annual Fund gift is an investment in excellence and in the future of each Antilles student. They need and deserve your support.

Thank you,

Paul Horovitz
Head of School

Thank you for your support!
