Dear Nesbitt,

I just got home from work and looked on my computer. I picked out the following pictures. I have more, but these are the photos that have Alex in them.

Some are from rehearsal prior to the show and the others are from the actual production. You can tell by the amount of makeup.

Hope this helps.

Students Produce Stage Play "The Foreigner"

On Jan. 28 and 29, playwright Larry Shue's "The Foreigner" takes center stage at Royal Palm Beach High School.

The comedy's cast members are: Billy Hart who plays shy Charlie Baker, an Englishman who impersonates a foreigner; his friend "Froggy" played by Nick Dauk; bumbling landlady Betty Meeks (Taylor Benjamin); a misguided fanatic, Rev. David Marshall Lee (Chris Wherry-Walde); the bigoted Owen Musser (Paul Codero); naive Ellard (Doug Springfield) and sister Catherine Simms.

Charlie, while on vacation, prefers isolation and so pretends not to speak English. The surrounding characters unveil their plots in front of Charlie believing he does not understand.

Misunderstandings and psychological teasing abound until the evil is unmasked, a plot to cheat landlady Meeks out of her house.

This rollicking romp is worth the $10 for adults, $5 for students. Performances begin at 7:30 p.m. The general public is welcome.

Royal Palm Beach High School!

January 27th - 29th

When a shy, introverted man and his hopelessly foolish friends outwit the Ku Klux Klan in Larry Shue's "The Foreigner", the message is clear: the most unlikely people possess hidden heroism.

While on a fishing vacation in Georgia, hyper-sensitive, shy Charlie Baker (Billy Hart) craves such extreme isolation he agrees to impersonate a non-English speaking foreigner. His friend, the solid Sgt. "Froggy" LeSeuer (Nick Dauk), magnifies the illusion by convincing their wanderlust, bumbling but good-hearted landlady, Betty Meeks (Taylor Benjamin), that anything in English can be said without Charlie understanding,

Meanwhile, a misguided fanatic, the Rev. David Marshall Lee (Chris Wherry-Walde) and the bigoted Owen Musser (Paul Cordero), are plotting to cheat Meeks out of her house, as well as a naive sister and brother, Ellard (Doug Springfield) and Catherine Simms [redacted], out of their inheritance. With Charlie as a kind of an invisible man, misunderstandings and psychological teasing abound until the evil is unmasked.

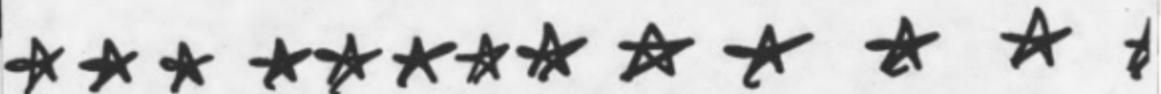

Tickets for the rollicking production are available at the door. $10.00 for adults and $5.00 for students. Performances begin at 7:30 p.m. The general public is welcome.

Ellard (Doug Springfield) teaching Charlie (Billy Hart) a lesson in English. Betty Meeks (Taylor Benjamin) looks on.

Charlie Baker (Billy Hart) tell a funny story.
