

PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL

Dear [REDACTED]

It has been a long time since we were here in [REDACTED] together and that meeting is often in my thoughts. I hope that you are all well. I am so grateful we managed to speak despite the pandemic – thank you for travelling to see me. I hope that you received the additional information sent to you a while ago (via my lawyer [REDACTED])

[REDACTED] It is really important to me that you have taken notice of that document.

Please can someone let me know if it is possible to listen in on the trial or get daily transcripts? No one has been in touch with me since we spoke. My understanding was that victims would be kept informed of events? Please can you tell me who I contact?

[REDACTED]

I beg you to try to redact my name and protect my privacy and not to expose me to more danger, sexualisation, humiliation and lies. This trial has the world's attention. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] . I am again living in fear of what will happen next. [REDACTED]

Something that struck a chord with me was written by the author Chimanda Ngozi Adichie: 'In this age of social media, where a story travels the world in minutes, silence sometimes means that other people can hijack your story and soon, their false version becomes the defining story about you. The assumption of good faith is dead.....'

Yours sincerely,
